

SLFU Licenses Affected By Governor Lamont's Executive Order

Per the Governor's executive order, any of the following licenses that "expires or expired at any time on or after March 1, 2020", shall have an additional 90 day extension.

- Pistol Permits:
 - Temporary pistol permits issued by a local authority normally have a 60 day expiration. By executive order, 90 additional days have been authorized (150 days from issuance);
 - Pistol permit renewals normally have a 90 day grace period after expiration. By executive order, 90 additional days have been authorized (180 days from expiration).

- Pawn Broker & Second Hand Dealers:
 - By executive order, pawn broker and second hand dealer licenses are valid for an additional 90 days after expiration.

- Security Guards:
 - Security guard renewals normally have a 90 day grace period after expiration. By executive order, 90 additional days have been authorized (180 days from expiration).

- Armed Security Guards:
 - Armed security guard renewal dates coincide with their pistol permit expiration date. By executive order, 90 additional days have been authorized (180 days from expiration).

- Bail Enforcement Agents:
 - By executive order, bail enforcement agent licenses are valid for an additional 90 days after expiration.

- Private Investigator:
 - By executive order, private investigator licenses are valid for an additional 90 days after expiration.

- Professional Bondsmen:
 - By executive order, professional bondsmen licenses are valid for an additional 90 days after expiration.

- Security Services:
 - By executive order, security service licenses are valid for an additional 90 days after expiration.

- Security Guard Instructor:
 - By executive order, security guard instructor licenses are valid for an additional 90 days after expiration.